CMN 101  Public Speaking  credit: 3 hours.
Preparation and presentation of short informative and persuasive speeches; emphasis on the selection and organization of material, methods of securing interest and attention, and the elements of delivery. Credit is not given for both CMN 101 and either CMN 111 or CMN 112.

CMN 102  Intro to Comm Theory & Res  credit: 4 hours.
Survey of the questions probed, the methods employed, and the current status of knowledge in the study of communication.
This course satisfies the General Education Criteria for a:
UIUC: Behavioral Sciences

CMN 111  Oral & Written Comm I  credit: 3 hours.
Principles and practice in communication; stress on fundamentals of critical thinking in writing and speaking. The campus rhetoric requirement is fulfilled by this course in conjunction with CMN 112. Credit is not given for both CMN 111 + CMN 112, and other courses that fulfill the Composition I requirement (i.e., RHET 100, RHET 101+RHET 102, RHET 103+RHET 104, RHET 105, ESL 114+ESL 115). Credit is also not given for both CMN 111+CMN 112, and CMN 101. CMN 111+CMN 112 cannot be taken by students who have completed the University’s Composition I requirement.
This course satisfies the General Education Criteria for a:
UIUC: Freshman Composition I

CMN 112  Oral & Written Comm II  credit: 3 hours.
Continuation of Oral & Written Comm I; stress on deliberation and fundamentals of communication and public argument through speaking and writing. The campus rhetoric requirement is fulfilled by this course in conjunction with CMN 111. Credit is not given for both CMN 111+CMN 112 and other courses that fulfill the Composition I requirement (i.e., RHET 100; RHET 101+ RHET 102; RHET 103+RHET 104; RHET 105; ESL 114+ESL 115). Credit is also not given for both CMN 111+CMN 112 and CMN 101. CMN 111+CMN
112 may not be taken by students who have completed the University’s Composition I requirement. Prerequisite: CMN 111.
This course satisfies the General Education Criteria for a:
UIUC: Freshman Composition I

CMN 113  Small Group Communication  credit: 3 hours.
Study of leadership, group process, and interpersonal relations in the small group, conference, and the public forum; emphasis on practice in leading and participation in various types of public discussion and conference, with materials drawn from current public questions.

CMN 115  Interviewing  credit: 3 hours.
Describes theory and research on interviews in interpersonal and organizational settings; emphasis on practice in conducting and participating in different types of interviews, with materials drawn from various interview settings (i.e., employment, evaluation, medical).

CMN 191  Freshman Honors Tutorial  credit: 1 TO 3 hours.
Study of selected topics on an individually arranged basis. Open only to Chancellors Scholars, Cohn Scholars and James Scholars. May be repeated one time. Prerequisite: Consent of departmental honors advisor.

CMN 199  Undergraduate Open Seminar  credit: 0 TO 5 hours.
May be repeated to a maximum of 6 hours.

CMN 204  Internship in Teaching Comm  credit: 3 hours.
Supervised experience in assisting in the teaching of an undergraduate course in communication; practice in preparing and presenting brief lectures, conducting activities within class, and assisting students outside of class. Prerequisite: Junior standing, cumulative 3.0 grade-point average, 3.5 grade-point average in Communication coursework, recommendation from an instructor, and approval by application.

CMN 210  Public Comm in Everyday Life  credit: 3 hours.
Introduces concepts useful for the critical analysis of public communication in everyday life. Drawing on communication theory and practice, especially theories of rhetoric, the course investigates techniques of persuasion, offers tools for critical analysis of public discourse, and considers the political and ethical implications of various forms of public communication.

This course satisfies the General Education Criteria for a:
UIUC: Hist&Philosoph Perspect
UIUC: Western Compartv Cult

CMN 211  Business Communication  credit: 3 hours.
Focus on relevant theory and research on communication strategies and skills vital to diverse business contexts. Topics will include communication in civic engagement and in multinational corporations, cross-cultural communication, ethics, telecommuting, virtual work teams, and effective writing. Study, preparation, and presentation of the chief types of business speeches and other forms of communication; special attention to conferences, sales talks, interviews, and job applications are included. Prerequisite: CMN 101.

CMN 212  Intro to Organizational Comm  credit: 3 hours.
Considers major theories, research questions, and approaches to organizational communication.

CMN 220  Communicating Public Policy  credit: 3 hours.
Study of the nature of policy-oriented communication; analysis and formulation of positions on issues of professional, personal, or public interest; design and presentation of public policy messages addressed to varying tasks and audiences, with special emphasis on advanced writing skills. Prerequisite: Completion of campus Composition I general education requirement.

This course satisfies the General Education Criteria for a:
UIUC: Advanced Composition

CMN 230  Intro to Interpersonal Comm  credit: 3 hours.
Study of communication theory and its application to interpersonal relationships; extensive discussion of problems of conflict and misunderstanding in personal affairs to facilitate the development of knowledge, insights, and skills in the processes of face-to-face interaction.

This course satisfies the General Education Criteria for a:
UIUC Social Sciences

CMN 231  Communication and Conflict  credit: 3 hours.
Examines how people experience and manage conflict in both private and public settings. Units focus on conflict in interpersonal, small group, and organizational contexts.
CMN 232  Intro to Intercultural Comm  credit: 3 hours.
Introduction to the study of intercultural communication in a variety of contexts, including domestic and international; examines theory and research to explain what happens when people from different cultural and linguistic backgrounds interact. Requires students to think critically about the ways in which "taken-for-granted" ways of thinking, acting, and interacting are culturally specific.

This course satisfies the General Education Criteria for a:
UIUC: Non-Western Cultures
UIUC Social Sciences

CMN 260  Intro to Health Communication  credit: 3 hours.
Introduces theory and research on communication in health and illness contexts. Explores how messages from media, interpersonal, and organizational sources affect health beliefs and behaviors.

This course satisfies the General Education Criteria for a:
UIUC: Behavioral Sciences
UIUC: Western Compartv Cult

CMN 275  Media, Money and Power  credit: 4 hours.
Describes the political economy of the media in the U.S. Acquaints students with a core understanding of how the media system operates, and with what effects, in a capitalist society. Examines the role of advertising, public relations, corporate concentration, and government regulation upon news reporting, entertainment, culture, and participatory democracy. Also examines issues related to the Internet, globalization, and public broadcasting.

This course satisfies the General Education Criteria for a:
UIUC: Hist&Philosoph Perspect
UIUC: Western Compartv Cult

CMN 277  Intro to Mediated Comm  credit: 4 hours.
Survey of the history, structure, forms, and social effects of the American mass media.

This course satisfies the General Education Criteria for a:
UIUC Social Sciences

CMN 280  Comm Technology & Society  credit: 3 hours.
Introduction to theory and research on both old and new communication technologies; focus will be on how these technological systems develop and are used, and what implications of these systems have for culture and society.

This course satisfies the General Education Criteria for a:
UIUC Social Sciences

CMN 304  Communication Internship  credit: 1 TO 3 hours.
Directed internship experience for Communication majors. Students must have consent of the Internship Coordinator. May be repeated in separate terms to a maximum of 6 hours.

CMN 310  The Rhetorical Tradition  credit: 3 hours.
Survey of major trends in the development of rhetorical theory from Homer to the present.

CMN 320  Comm Controversy Public Policy  credit: 3 hours.
Examines how public policy shapes American life, by providing an advanced analysis of the controversies, discourses and effects of public policy with a focus on sustainability issues. Explores the American landscape, energy sources, environment, food systems, political process, and government lobbying rules and reform. Provides in-depth analysis of the definitions and histories of public policy and the tensions between public and private spheres that shape it. Develops a fundamental understanding of public versus private spheres; analyzes and critiques how public policy shapes American historical and cultural landscapes; increases skillfulness in oral and written analysis of controversies, institutions, political and economic power brokers, and social norms. Prerequisite: CMN 220 or consent of instructor.

CMN 321  Strategies of Persuasion  credit: 3 hours.
Studies of powerful instances of public persuasion; students examine key means of public influence. Prerequisite: CMN 101.

CMN 323  Argumentation  credit: 3 hours.
Study of the theory of argument, e.g., evidence, reasoning, and construction of briefs; practice in formal and informal forms of debate and public discourse on current public questions. Prerequisite: CMN 101.

CMN 325  Politics and the Media  credit: 3 hours.
Same as MACS 322 and PS 312. See PS 312.

CMN 326  Mass Media and the Audience  credit: 3 hours.
Presents information on how to conceptualize audiences, mass media use, and reception of media messages. Also examines the character of the audience experience, uses and gratifications of mass media, social cognition, and studies of audiences as interpretive communities.

CMN 336  Family Communication  credit: 3 hours.
Examines the nature and functions of communication in various family configurations (e.g. nuclear families, single-parent families, stepfamilies); discusses both problematic interaction patterns and links between family interaction and strong families.

CMN 340  Visual Politics  credit: 3 hours.
Explores the role of visual images in U.S. culture, paying special attention to the ways that images function persuasively as political communication. Provides tools for analyzing historical and contemporary images and artifacts, such as photographs, prints, paintings, advertisements, and memorials. Emphasis on how visual images are used for remembering and memorializing; confronting and resisting; consuming and commodifying; governing and authorizing; and visualizing and informing.

CMN 357  Intro to Conversation Analysis  credit: 3 hours.
Same as LING 357. See LING 357.

CMN 361  Oral Narr: Social Use of Story  credit: 3 hours.
Explores the role of traditional oral narrative in contemporary social life. Examines some major genres: sacred narratives, family stories, crime stories, legends of the supernatural, and jokes. Each of these genres will be examined in terms of content and context in a larger community of discourse. Cases and examples will be drawn largely from the English-speaking world.

CMN 362  Folklore as Communication  credit: 3 hours.
Study of unofficial, noncommercial and face-to-face modes of communication, called "folklore" or "vernacular culture." For purposes of this course, "folklore" includes speech, stories, legends, sayings, proverbs, customs, rituals and performances. Students will be asked to develop and use a variety of cultural description and documentation skills. The goal is to give students a strong sense of variety, persistence, and flexibility of traditional culture as it lives in the present, and practice in recording it, writing about it, and analyzing it.
CMN 368  Sexual Communication  credit: 3 hours.
Describes sex as a fundamental activity in the development and maintenance of human relationships. Communication about sex happens in a variety of interpersonal, group, organizational, and mediated contexts. Explores the many ways in which sexual communication intersects our personal, relational, cultural, and institutional norms and values. Topics will include social norms about sexual communication, sexual harassment, family communication about sex, sexual health education, doctor-patient communication about sex, and sex in the media and in advertising. Theory and research on communication processes will be used to elaborate how talk about sex can achieve multiple goals.

CMN 375  Popular Media and Culture  credit: 3 hours.
Using the critical lens of theories on race, class, gender, and sexuality, this class will investigate the complicated relations among popular media and culture, including how our everyday life and attitudes are thought to be shaped by the media, and how cultural systems can be said to inform the media. By exploring a wide range of media (e.g., film, television, music, the internet, and computer games), students will investigate the national, political, and personal dimensions of popular media and the varied ways in which media construct, reflect and intersect with specific cultural systems, identities, and classifications. May be repeated in separate terms to a maximum of 6 hours.

CMN 377  Propaganda and Modern Society  credit: 3 hours.
Traces the social, economic, and political underpinnings of propaganda and public relations. Examines the rise of corporate propaganda in the early 20th century and explores how these strategies were adapted by a wide range of social and political actors. The second part of the course discusses the above issues from contemporary perspectives. The role of WWI, WWII, and the more recent Iraqi war, in solidifying the role of government and commercial propaganda in society and the frequently blurry distinctions between government propaganda and commercial public relations will also be discussed. The relationship between propaganda, PR and the mass media will constitute a constant site of inquiry. This course focuses on theory, especially critical theory.

CMN 390  Individual Study  credit: 1 TO 3 hours.
Individual investigation of special problems. May be repeated to a maximum of 6 hours. Prerequisite: Twelve hours of communication coursework; a grade-point average of 3.25; and consent of head of department.

CMN 396  Special Topics in Comm  credit: 3 hours.
Special topics in communication not treated in regularly scheduled courses. See Class Schedule for current topics. May be repeated as topics vary.

CMN 410  Workplace Comm Technology  credit: 3 OR 4 hours.
Focuses on how communication technologies shape the creation, content, and flow of information within and between organizations. Special attention will be given to the characteristics of the technology; social and organizational practices; economic considerations; and policy issues. 3 undergraduate hours. 4 graduate hours.

CMN 411  Organizational Comm Assessment  credit: 3 OR 4 hours.
Organizational communication theory applied to the assessment of communication practices in organizations; systematic procedures for diagnosing communication problems and facilitating effective communication in organizations. Extensive use of case studies. 3 undergraduate hours. 4 graduate hours. Prerequisite: CMN 212.

CMN 412  Adv Organizational Comm  credit: 3 OR 4 hours.
Advanced study of theory and research in organizational communication; considers such topics as communication networks, superior-subordinate communications, task-related and social information processing, and communicating with the external environment. 3 undergraduate hours. 4 graduate hours. Prerequisite: CMN 212.
CMN 413 Adv Small Group Communication credit: 3 OR 4 hours.
Advanced study of theory, research, techniques, and training methods in interviewing and group discussion; emphasis on empirical research findings concerning communication processes in face-to-face groups. 3 undergraduate hours. 4 graduate hours.

CMN 414 Communication and Leadership credit: 3 OR 4 hours.
Explores communication behaviors and processes in theories and research on leadership in small group, organizational, institutional, and cultural settings; a practicum on leadership communication using established and validated measures. Goals include defining leader communication; distinguishing between popular appeals and social-scientific evidence about leadership; familiarizing students with ways to evaluate leadership; and increasing self-awareness about leadership. Topics include leadership and gender, diversity, ethics, teams, and culture. 3 undergraduate hours. 4 graduate hours.

CMN 415 Classical Rhetorics credit: 3 OR 4 hours.
Survey of the contributions to the theory and practice of rhetoric from Homer to the Renaissance. Same as CLCV 415 and MDVL 415. 3 undergraduate hours. 4 graduate hours.

CMN 416 Early Modern Rhetorics credit: 3 OR 4 hours.
Significant developments in European rhetorical theory from 1500 to the 20th Century. 3 undergraduate hours. 4 graduate hours.

CMN 417 Contemporary Rhetorics credit: 3 OR 4 hours.
Major contributors to rhetorical theory from I.A. Richards to the present. 3 undergraduate hours. 4 graduate hours.

CMN 421 Persuasion Theory & Research credit: 3 OR 4 hours.
Survey of major theories of persuasion, research on factors influencing persuasive effectiveness, and application to problems of persuasive discourse. 3 undergraduate hours. 4 graduate hours.

CMN 423 Rhetorical Criticism credit: 3 OR 4 hours.
Methods of interpreting and judging persuasive discourse with emphasis on political speaking and writing; extensive practice in criticism of rhetorical texts. 3 undergraduate hours. 4 graduate hours.

CMN 424 Campaigning to Win credit: 3 OR 4 hours.
Using a case study approach to illustrate how campaigns attempt to persuade and mobilize voters, students learn how to plan and manage effective political campaigns. Same as PS 411. 3 undergraduate hours. 4 graduate hours.

CMN 427 Children and the Media credit: 3 OR 4 hours.
Examines the role of the mass media in the lives of children. Focuses on how developmental differences influence how children process and respond to the media. Topics include media violence, media advertising, stereotypes in the media, and educational content. 3 undergraduate hours. 4 graduate hours.

CMN 428 Media and the Human Body credit: 3 OR 4 hours.
Explores the way the human body is portrayed within, and affected by, the mass media. The term "body" is broadly construed to apply to a wide range of corporeal matters that have been linked to identity, including ability and disability, race, age, sexuality, social class, athletic prowess, and health. We will take a social psychological approach to the study of media and the body. Knowledge of statistics-based research methods is not required, but is helpful. 3 undergraduate hours. 4 graduate hours.
CMN 429  Race and the Mass Media  credit: 3 OR 4 hours.
Present an overview of racial stereotypes in the mass media and the effects of stereotypical imagery on viewers. Discussion of the structural and social origins of stereotypic media from multiple perspectives focusing on published scholarship that systematically assesses the content and effects of racial representations from a social scientific perspective. Intersections between race, ethnicity, class, and gender also will be explored. 3 undergraduate hours. 4 graduate hours.

CMN 432  Gender and Language  credit: 3 OR 4 hours.
Study of actual and perceived differences and similarities in the use of language by women and by men; emphasizes the social contexts of speech. Same as GWS 432, and LING 432. 3 undergraduate hours. 4 graduate hours.

CMN 435  Adv Interpersonal Comm  credit: 3 OR 4 hours.
Study of the major processes involved in an individual's adjustment to the communication situations of everyday life; emphasis on the development of interpersonal competency and orientations, social perception, interpersonal sentiment and hostility, trust, and the social context as factors influencing the understanding and evaluation of interpersonal messages. 3 undergraduate hours. 4 graduate hours. Prerequisite: CMN 230 or consent of instructor.

CMN 437  Comm in Personal Relationships  credit: 3 OR 4 hours.
Examines theories of communication within personal relationships, including family, friendship, and romantic associations. Specific topics include relationship development, conflict, power, self-disclosure, and relational uncertainty. 3 undergraduate hours. 4 graduate hours.

CMN 450  Adv Topics in Public Discourse  credit: 3 OR 4 hours.
Study of selected periods and genres of public discourse in historical context, including British, American, French, Russian, German, Chinese, and Japanese. 3 undergraduate hours. 4 graduate hours. May be repeated as topics vary to a maximum of 12 undergraduate hours or 16 graduate hours. Prerequisite: One course in rhetorical criticism or consent of instructor.

CMN 462  Interpersonal Health Comm  credit: 3 OR 4 hours.
Examines the role of communication in the management of mental and physical health. Focuses on topics such as communication and illness identity, health and interpersonal relationships, health care provider-patient interactions, impacts of technology on health communication, and health education and prevention efforts. 3 undergraduate hours. 4 graduate hours.

CMN 463  Organizational Health Comm  credit: 3 OR 4 hours.
Focuses on organizational issues shaping communication between providers, patients, and consumers of health care and information, including background on financing personal medical services; organizations, professions, and their interrelationships involved in providing medical services; theorizing communication and organization in personal medical services; and communication between organizations and the public on health issues. Topics include managed care, professional communication, the hospital as a unique communication site, ethics in health communication, direct-to-consumer drug advertising, and health crisis communication. 3 undergraduate hours. 4 graduate hours.

CMN 464  Health Communication Campaigns  credit: 3 OR 4 hours.
Focuses on the theoretical principles behind designing, implementing, and evaluating a health communication campaign. Students will be exposed to campaigns pertaining to alcohol abuse, illicit drug use, organ donation, safe sex, tobacco use, among others. The first part of the course reviews theories used in health communication campaigns, derived from the disciplines of communication, social psychology, and public health. The second part of the course focuses on designing campaigns and creating messages as well as evaluating the effects of those campaigns and messages. 3 undergraduate hours. 4 graduate hours.
CMN 465  Social Marketing Health&Behav  credit: 3 OR 4 hours.
Applies marketing concepts and practices to bring about behavior change for a social good. Social marketing is an approach to planning and implementing projects and programs that emphasizes a customer-centered mindset to learn what people want and need to change their behavior. Designed to give students a thorough orientation to the discipline of social marketing and its application to a range of problems with an emphasis on issues in health contexts. Topics will include audience research, segmentation strategies, communication channels, marketing mix, and the application of behavioral theory. Students will acquire practical skills in the design, implementation, and evaluation of health intervention initiatives that use social marketing. Same as CHLH 465. 3 undergraduate hours. 4 graduate hours.

CMN 476  Commercialism and the Public  credit: 3 OR 4 hours.
Explores the influences of advertising and commercialism and their role in defining our political culture, social institutions, and personal lives. Through readings, written reflection, visual presentations, and class discussions, the course explores a wide range of advertising and consumer issues and discusses how consumers negotiate these forces. The first part of the course is devoted to a historical overview; discussing the risk and evolving nature of advertising throughout the 20th century. Having established a historical framework, the course offers six contemporary topics to be discussed in the remainder of the semester. Topics may include, but not be limited to: the commercial mass media; the public relations industry; gender in advertising; commercialization of childhood; the commercialization of medicine and science; contemporary consumer society; advertising in schools; and food, advertising, and body image. 3 undergraduate hours. 4 graduate hours.

CMN 491  Honors Individual Study  credit: 2 hours.
Individual investigation of special problems. No graduate credit. May be repeated to a maximum of 4 undergraduate hours. Prerequisite: Twelve hours of communication; a grade-point average of 3.50; and consent of head of department.

CMN 493  Honors Senior Thesis  credit: 2 hours.
Individual study leading to a thesis for honors in the Department of Communication. No graduate credit. May be repeated to a maximum of 4 undergraduate hours. Prerequisite: Senior standing; a grade-point average of 3.50; and consent of head of department.

CMN 496  Adv Topics in Communication  credit: 3 OR 4 hours.
Advanced topics in communication not treated in regularly scheduled courses; see Class Schedule for current topics. 3 undergraduate hours. 4 graduate hours. May be repeated as topics vary.

CMN 501  Intro to Health Communication  credit: 4 hours.
Introduction to theory and research on communication in health and illness contexts, focusing on how messages from interpersonal, organizational, cultural and media sources affect health beliefs and behaviors. Some topics to be explored include: the theoretical foundations underlying differences in the ways individuals communicate about health, health campaign strategies and organizational influences on health and strategies for generating successful or beneficial health-related communication (as well as recognize problematic communicative trends).

CMN 502  Health Comm Research Methods I  credit: 2 hours.
Introduction to social scientific methods for research on health communication and health outcomes. These methods may be used either to build general (theoretical) knowledge about communication or to aid in design and evaluation of actual messages and campaigns. Spring terms only. Prerequisite: Only for students enrolled in the MS in Health Communication degree program.

CMN 503  Health Comm Research Methods II  credit: 2 hours.
Focuses on analytic strategy in both qualitative and quantitative analysis. Complements and expands upon the social scientific methods for collecting data introduced in CMN 502. Prerequisite: CMN 502 strongly recommended.

CMN 504  Health & Family Communication  credit: 4 hours.
Exploration of current perspectives on the interplay between family communication processes and health-related issues. Using theoretical foundations such as systems theory, communication privacy management theory, narrative theory and family communication patterns theory, students will explore the ways that family members communicate about health, cope with health-related problems, and influence one another's health-related behaviors.

CMN 505  Provider-Patient Communication  credit: 2 hours.
Study of theoretical bases for understanding social interactions in health care settings focusing on three general areas: (a) communication and identity, (b) health and personal relationships, and (c) health care provider-patient interaction.

CMN 506  Health Informatics  credit: 4 hours.
Explores: (1) contexts of health informatics applications; (2) reciprocal relationships among people, activities, and health informatics applications; and (3) consequences surrounding the design, implementation, and use of health informatics applications. Course content includes: an introduction to health informatics and associated theoretical perspectives; health information as a strategic resource; provider health informatics applications; the e-health movement and consumer health informatics applications; and the intersection of health informatics with current challenges in health care.

CMN 507  Hlth Comm Orgs Profs & Policy  credit: 4 hours.
Study of the organizational features of the U.S. health care systems, generating a comprehensive image of the context in which communication between patients and providers, health care consumers and organizations, and public health care messages are sent, received, exchanged, interpreted, and circulated. Offered Fall terms only. Prerequisite: Only for students enrolled in the MS in Health Communications degree program.

CMN 508  Successful Health Campaigns  credit: 4 hours.
Introduction to theoretical frameworks, research, and applications of health campaigns. Literature from contributing disciplines will be reviewed (e.g., advertising, communication, marketing, public health, political science, psychology and sociology) and key aspects of campaign development will be discussed (e.g., formative research, audience segmentation, message tailoring and evaluation). Offered Spring terms only. Prerequisite: Only for students enrolled in the MS in Health Communication degree program.

CMN 509  Soc Mkting & Health Behavior  credit: 2 hours.
Orientation to the discipline of social marketing with some application to a range of problems, emphasizing issues with a health context. Topics will include audience research, segmentation strategies, communication channels, and the marketing mix. Students will acquire practical skills in audience research and learn about the design, implementation, and evaluation of health intervention initiatives that use social marketing. Offered Spring terms only. Prerequisite: Only for students enrolled in the MS in Health Communication degree program.

CMN 529  Seminar Communication Theory  credit: 4 hours.
Special topics in communication theory and research. May be repeated to a maximum of 16 hours. Prerequisite: Consent of instructor.

CMN 530  Family Communication Theory  credit: 4 hours.
Graduate seminar that examines theory and research on the development of families, communication in various types of families and family relationships, and current issues that affect family communication.

CMN 531  Narr in Interdisc Perspective  credit: 4 hours.
Engages fresh interdisciplinary perspectives on narrative and identifies aspects of narrative that are not illuminated by current thinking. Identifies gaps and absences in the literature on the social creation of reality through narrative. Of particular interests are the dream, the relationship between personal oral history and myth, people who have "no stories" or have untellable stories, and the trauma narrative as compulsory testimony. Approaches these issues from the perspective of scholarship in folklore, sociolinguistics, developmental psychology, communication, cultural psychology, and anthropology.
CMN 538  Seminar Rhetorical Theory  credit: 4 hours.
Study of special topics in the history of rhetorical theory. May be repeated to a maximum of 16 hours.

CMN 550  Intro to Comm Grad Study  credit: 1 hours.
Orientation to discipline of Communication and too departmental research areas. Discusses disciplinary norms, research ethics/IRB, academic writing, and professional conduct. Advice on choosing areas of research, identifying suitable graduate advisor, time management, and career planning. Faculty visitors discuss their research and professional development topics. Approved for S/U grading only. Prerequisite: Communication graduate students only.

CMN 564  Adv Health Comm Campaigns  credit: 4 hours.
Graduate seminar that explores the leading theoretical frameworks and research paradigms in the health campaign literature and provides insight into the design and evaluation of health campaigns.

CMN 574  Communication Research Methods  credit: 4 hours.
Introduction to content analysis, survey, and experimental research designs and quantitative and qualitative analysis in communication research.

CMN 575  Capstone Individual Study  credit: 4 hours.
Provides capstone experience for students in the MS in Health Communication degree program.

CMN 595  Special Problems  credit: 1 TO 12 hours.
Individual investigation of special projects not included in theses. May be repeated in separate terms. Open to master's candidates for a maximum of 4 graduate hours and to doctoral candidates for a maximum of 12 graduate hours. Prerequisite: Consent from head of department.

CMN 599  Thesis Research  credit: 0 TO 16 hours.
Approved for S/U grading only. May be repeated.